Thirty Colleges Represented At Speech Contest Tonight

Representatives from 30 colleges and universities will meet at MSU this weekend for the 12th annual Northwest Tau Kappa Alpha speech tournament. The contest will begin Thursday and end Saturday afternoon, and will consist of debate, original oratory, extemporaneous speaking, and interpretative reading. The proposition that the debate teams will discuss is: "Resolved: That the requirement of membership in a labor organization is a condition of employment should be illegal."

Extemporaneous speakers will deal with three subjects—the International Geophysical Year, U.S. Social Problems Today, and International Relations, 1897-58. Interpretative reading will consist of critical poetry, dramatic literature, and humorous prose.

Banquet to Follow
The tournament will begin with debate Thursday evening at 7:30

Diettert Is Named To Science Group

R. A. Diettert, chairman of the botany department of MSU, has been named to a newly created Northwest Scientific Assn. committee.

The newly formed committee will work for improvement of primary and secondary school science education, according to William K. Ferrell, Oregon State college, association president.

The association's new committee headed by Dr. Frank Nicol of Eastern Washington College, consists of about 4100 scientists in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and Canada.

The functions of the Science Teaching Improvement Committee are: 1. to represent the association at the local and regional level in primary and secondary school science activities; 2. to aid existing science education programs where members of the association can advise or participate; 3. to promote interest in science education among the general public in the region; and 4. to assist in improving science-teacher training in the colleges in the region.

Hoekendorf Given Fulbright Award

William C. Hoekendorf, instructor of economics, has been awarded a Fulbright grant to do research work for doctoral dissertation in Japan. The grant is for ten months, beginning in October of this year.

Hoekendorf, who received his B.S. in 1945 and his M.A. in 1952 from the University of Washington has been an instructor in the economics department of MSU since 1956. From September of 1946 to June of 1951, he was employed by the United States Military Government in Japan, doing civil information work.

Equestrian Show Set This Weekend

The annual Spring Horse Show will be Saturday and Sunday in the University Field House. The event will be presented by the University Saddle Club and the University Stables for the benefit of Western Montana Youth Guidance Center.

There will be three performances, Saturday at 2 and 8 p.m. and Sunday at 8 p.m. Tickets, now on sale, are $1 for adults, 50 cents for students. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

$35,000 Given Faith Center

Approximately $35,000 in pledges and contributions have been received so far by the Endowment Foundation for the construction of a Religious Center at MSU, according to Tommie Lu Middleton, secretary of the Endowment Office.

$50,000 Minimum

It will require a minimum of $50,000 to build the Religious Center. Miss Middleton said the fund drive has been very well received by alumni throughout the state.

All counties have not been canvassed yet and the contributions have picked up a great deal so far this spring, Miss Middleton said. There has been some discussion of breaking ground but nothing definite has been decided.

First Step

The Religious Center is the first step in a larger project which calls for the addition of an Interfaith Chapel and a Main Chapel in the future.

The Interfaith Chapel will cost an additional $50,000 and will seat 300 to 400. The Main Chapel will seat 800 to 1000 and will cost $100,000.

10 Offices

Plans for the Religious Center include 10 offices for pastors, three conference rooms, a library and reading room, a large Interfaith Forum and a Discussion Bowl.

A student chapel committee has met with student religious leaders to discuss plans for financing the Interfaith Chapel.

MSU Symphonette To Play at Opera

The MSU Symphonette directed by Eugene Andrie will provide instrumental accompaniment and incidental music for "Carmen", the all-school show, May 16, 17 and 18.

Members of the orchestra are James Shea, Karen DuVall, Jean Anne Cowan, Gordon Childs, Lorraine Peterson, Ardeth Keller, Dorothy Blegen, James O'Brien, Carol Baty, John Selleck, Lawrence Coloff, Lesley Mortimer, Florence Reynolds, Noel Waters, Sonya Stimac, Jeffrey Edmondson.

Frog Jumping Contest Scheduled For This Sunday; Practice in Gym

George Cross, professor of physical education, announced yesterday that prospective contestants for the upcoming Jumping Frog contest Sunday, may have access to the gym and its facilities—with certain reservations of course.

Cross said, "Actually the gym and its facilities are supposed to be used by University students and personnel only, but as long as the contestants conduct themselves in a manner befitting mature, college-level frogs, we will allow them these privileges. We certainly don't want to be branded 'anti-amphibious' by any patriotic organizations."

"The frogs will follow the same rules as other students, which means they may use the equipment anytime, so long as it does not interfere with any classes," he said. Cross added emphatically that the students in gym class are not to bother the frogs either. Last Spring in archery class a student decided he wanted a moving target and picked a poor little

Faculty Members Begin Vote For Vacant Committee Posts

Final balloting among the faculty members started yesterday to fill two positions on the faculty Budget and Policy Committee and one position on the Appointments and Promotions Committee.

Two slates of candidates have appeared for these positions. A group which believes in supporting President McFarland in "the present crisis" is backing Fred Honkala, professor of geology, and Lloyd Oakland, professor of Music, for Budget-Policy Committee. This group is supporting Oscar Hammen, professor of history and political science, for the Appointments and Promotions Committee. Ludwig Brownman, professor of zoology and new Budget-Policy Committee chairman, has proposed Vernon Sletten, professor of education, and Gordon Castle, professor of zoology, to Budget-Policy Committee and Melvin Wren, professor of history and political science, to Appointments and Promotions Committee.

The group that is supporting President McFarland said in a statement sent to some faculty members "we want adequate representation on faculty committees for that majority which carried the faculty meeting of April 16. We will support the administration whenever, in our judgment, it promotes the well-being and progress of the University."

Faculty voters must return their ballots to Elections Chairman William Myers by Monday.

Lawyers Schedule Moot Court Prelims And Barristers Ball

The MSU law students will hold their annual Barristers Ball Friday evening at 9 in the Governors Room of the Hotel Florence. Those in attendance will be pre-law and law students, lawyers, judges, and other persons connected with law. Tickets may be purchased from the law school secretary.

In conjunction with Law Week the MSU law school will present the first of a series of arguments in moot court competition, Friday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. in the law school courtroom, according to Dean Robert Sullivan. Arguments will be presented by students in first and second-year classes.

Judges will be Prof. Gardner Cromwell, and John Cotter of the MSU law faculty, and George Dal-thorp, member of the school's moot court team, which last December was runner-up in the National Moot Court Competition. The argument of cases will continue until May 9.

Future of MSU's Religion School Under Discussion

The future of the School of Religion at MSU will be discussed today at a meeting in the Lodge by national, state and local leaders for six denominations supporting the school, according to Dr. Deane W. Fern, director. The six denominations are Baptist, Christian, Congregational, Episcopal, Methodist and Presbyterian.

Dr. Fern said, "In recent years the School of Religion has shown a phenomenal growth. Enrollment has increased more than 600 per cent in credit courses in four years, and student religious activities are increasing."

There are three ministers on the MSU staff; Dr. Richard Ford, assistant professor, Rev. Glenn Johnson, minister to students, and Dr. Fern.

"The School of Religion is financed entirely by voluntary contributions," Dr. Fern said. "As the program grows, additional financial resources must be secured. We are holding this meeting so our leaders can learn at first hand about our program and our direction for the future."

Appelhaus, Paige, Wanek Added to 'Carmen' Chorus

The following changes in the chorus for "Carmen" have been announced by Gordon Rognlien, assistant to the director.

LaDonna Appelhaus, Lowell Paige and Edward Wanek have been added to the 24-voice chorus. Dropping from the cast are Bill Williamson, Paul Miller and George Shirley.

The principal cast remains unchanged.

J. W. Smurr Directs 30 Questions to Leslie Fiedler

To the Kaimin:

I direct the following questions to Dr. Fiedler. In order to save space I will not discuss my reasons for approaching him in this manner, but he understands what I am attempting to achieve. It is to be hoped that the opinions which Dr. Fiedler and myself impute to our colleagues will be corrected if proven erroneous.

1. Before you called for the President to resign, why did you not approach him and announce your intentions?

2. You took advantage of an external crisis to move against the leader of our institution. When this becomes established practice, will you have any regrets? If you became embroiled with the Board of Education for one reason or another, what would you think of a President who exploited the opportunity by dumping YOU?

3. How many members of the faculty have openly requested the Board to accept the President's resignation? How do you account for this?

4. What are the chances that the Board will appoint a president who meets your exalted standards? What is the record of the Board on this point? Cite your sources.

5. If a vote were to be taken today, what percentage of the faculty do you think would vote to retain the president through the immediate crisis with the Board? How many for an indefinite period?

6. If you doubt that the vote on my resolution settled anything, why have you not called for another vote?

7. The students vote to send their officers to Helena and the officer who asked for this vote then refuses to go; the faculty votes to support the President and one member of the faculty then calls on the President to resign. Does majority rule mean nothing here? When are these Mexican politics to end?

8. Do you concede the possibility that President McFarland may be barred from exposing the Board members on the dismissal issue by his hope of making a compromise with those same Board members? Why have you not alluded to this possibility before?

9. If the Board sought to force the President to agree that our institution should have the same student/teacher ratio as the other university units, do you think he properly represented faculty sentiment in resisting such pressure?

10. If it is true that a majority of tenure professors have lost all confidence in the President, why have they failed to call for his resignation before the present crisis in Helena?

11. Many of your colleagues in the English department—some say a majority—do not support you in your present course, and they know your grievances against the President. Why is this?

Answering Questions

The Montana Kaimin has suggested an open discussion on such questions as the ones asked by Mr. Smurr on today's editorial page. If Mr. Fiedler and Mr. Smurr would consent to such a discussion, this would be the most desirable way of answering these questions.

However, if an open discussion is not agreeable, the Kaimin's columns remain open to exchanges of opinion.

12. How do you account for the fact that certain faculty members of striking individuality are now supporting the President, even though in former times they disliked him personally and still do?

13. Is it your contention that President McFarland does not command the respect and admiration of the legislature?

14. Are you so well informed about the thinking of the Board members that you can be sure that your present course is not harming University interests? From what sources do you derive your information about the Board?

15. Do you concede the possibility that newer members of the faculty may have gained insights into the President's character and methods which have not been achieved by you?

16. Many of the younger or newer faculty members came here hoping to escape personal politics. They mistrusted perennial dissenters and departmental viewpoints. They felt that the President was given insufficient credit by your group, and they also felt that he had a University view, while your people put the departments first. No doubt you see no merit in any of these opinions.

17. Do you deny that the proportion of faculty members holding the Ph.D. degree is generally considered to be an index of faculty quality?

18. Do you admit the possibility that students attend MSC instead of this school because of a widely-circulated story (whether it be true or false) that standards here have been raised to the level where lazy students cannot comfortably survive?

19. In your public statements at this University during the past decade, have you not scorned the use of enrollment figures as an index of administrative success? Are we reasonable in expecting Mr. Sletten to come out any day now with a clamor for more students with a command of New Testament Greek?

20. Do you doubt that the school will attract all the students it needs after 1960—McFarland or no?

21. I understand that you yourself do not hate the President, but it can hardly have escaped your attention that some of your supporters do. Is it not a postulate of all the disciplines that when men hate each other they cannot judge either wisely or fairly? How much of the anti-McFarland talk can we take at face value without a veritable trial of all the participants?

22. My own impression is that most faculties in America could see their president depart without much regret. Few presidents seem to be really popular. If I am correct in these assumptions, how do they concern Dr. McFarland and you?

23. I realize that you cannot be certain what all your supporters think. Nevertheless, you and they work in a certain universe of discourse not shared by the rest of us. Do you deny that your followers disagree among themselves on educational standards, on presidential desiderata, and on you yourself; and that they are held together only by a common dislike of the President? (In all these questions, if you object to the suggestion that you are a group-leader, please answer the questions in order to give me the kind of information you feel I am honestly seeking. I don't want to sacrifice any question over a disagreement on terms. We have so little time.)

24. Do you, or do any of the other dissidents, have any plan for correcting the President's alleged errors, or have you entered the fray without an agreed upon schedule of reforms? Were these reforms concerted before or after you called upon the President to resign?

25. In your opinion, do the other dissidents share your ideal of a University, and would they follow your lead in setting up such an institution?

26. If the system of elective chairmen and ad hoc appointment committees set up by President McFarland has sometimes been used to the detriment of departmental standards, is it not also true that the same system has often saved certain departments from their own mistakes and thus strengthened the University as a whole?

27. During whose administration was the general language requirement for the B.A. degree restored? Did this represent another savage attack on high standards by that Madman of the North, Carl McFarland?

28. In your opinion, are teaching standards adequately maintained when professors of rank do not teach basic departmental courses, or try not to, and the assignment of such courses to near-beginners is the accepted practice? Have you heard of departments where such things occur?

29. Do you believe that Budget and Policy committee was given authority to represent the University before the world, or rather to represent the faculty before the President? If the former, who is the documentary proof of it?

30. And finally, Dr. Fiedler, it is not a fact that the everyday morale of this faculty is probably neither better nor worse than that of other faculties; and that it is actually higher than usual during the contest with the Board on you made your speech of last week? Whatever your answer, do you know the sentiments of the younger members well enough to make flat statements on this point?

Track Coach Adams Depending Heavily on Experienced Frosh

Track coach Harry Adams is depending heavily on freshmen to lead his track team this year. Five of the Grizzly trackmen are frosh. They are Roy Lynn, Missoula, also plays end in football and health and physical education; Bob Cochran, Redlands, pre-business administration; Craig DeSilva, Missoula, entry major; Dewey Skelton, Sulphur Springs, health and physical education major; and Datsopolous, Missoula, pre-business administration major. Lynn and Skelton throw the javelin. In last year's Montana Interscholastic meet, each placed second in his respective division, class AA and C. Adams said Lynn has thrown the javelin 183 feet, and Skelton has thrown it 169 feet this year. Both marks are far short of last year's best effort by Ron Lundquist, who graduated last year, threw it 204 feet, 8½ inches against Utah State. John Datsopolous runs the 100-yard-dash, the 220-yard-dash, the 440, and broad jumps. In last year's Interscholastic he placed fourth, third, fourth, and fourth respectively in these events. He also was a member of the Missoula team which won the mile relay. Adams said Datsopolous was overweight now and cannot be used. He should be in condition soon, Adams said.

Craig DeSilva won the Mississippi high school championship for the 440 last year. Craig is a member of the Montana relay team as well as running the 440.

Cochran runs the 880 but is out now with an injury. Cochran has been running some this week, though, and Adams expects to see him in action soon.

Sports Broadcasts Free to Networks

Two ten minute sports broadcasts, Grizzly Spring Football Report and Grizzly Sports Roundup, are being produced in the MSU radio studios and will be made available to all Montana radio stations.

Grizzly Spring Football Report, a three program series, will feature interviews with head football coach Ray Jenkins and his staff by J. D. Coleman. The interviews will consist of reports on the progress of Grizzly spring practice and prospects for the 1958 season.

Grizzly Sports Roundup, a weekly program that will also resume this fall, will report the sports news in all phases of Grizzly athletics.

The first edition of these programs will be mailed this week to any Montana radio station that requests them.

Both programs are being produced by Don Oliver.

Bruce Montgomery, righthand twirler from Arvin, Calif., will probably get the nod from Coach Hal Sherbeck this coming Friday.

Haney, Johnson Take Debate First At Dillon Tourney

MSU debaters Tom Haney and Robert Johnson recently returned from the Intra-State Speech Tourney with more wins than all other entering schools put together, said Dr. Evelyn Coope of the speech department.

As debaters, the two-man team won first place. In extemporaneous speaking, Haney won first and Johnson placed second, and in the oratory division Haney placed second.

The tournament was held in Dillon Friday and Saturday with all units of the University and Carroll College participating.

The two men were accompanied on their trip by Dr. Coope, who acted as judge for events in which the Missoula entrants were not competing.

Karpat Wins Commendation

Dr. Kemal H. Karpat, professor of history and political science, has been given an achievement award for outstanding scholastic work while attaining his Ph.D. from New York University.

The award commended Dr. Karpat for achieving the "highest bracket of scholastic achievement with consistent evidence of outstanding scholarship."

Dr. Karpat, who had been on the staff at New York University, received his doctorate there in 1957. After receiving a degree in law from the University of Istanbul, Dr. Karpat came from Turkey to the University of Washington on a scholarship. He received his master's degree there and then went to New York University for his Ph.D.

This summer, Princeton Universities in Turkey by Dr. Karpat—city Press will publish a study of the first of its kind in any language.

Iowa Student to Speak To Christian Group Today

Garlan Hoskins, national president of the Disciples Student Fellowship, will discuss the Christian movement in Europe at the Student Christian Council discussion today at 4 p.m. in the School of Religious offices.

Hoskins, a sociology student from Iowa State College, has traveled in Europe and visited colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Kansas Art Gallery Shows Textile Work Of Mrs. Rudy Turk

Two textile pieces done by Wanda Borders Turk have been accepted in the 13th National Decorative Arts and Ceramics Exhibition in Wichita, Kan., according to Walter Hook, chairman of the art department.

Mrs. Turk, wife of Rudy Turk of the art department, is represented in the exhibit by a batik in golds and browns, entitled "Exotic Bird," and by a piece of hand-woven wool suiting of purple tonality.

The exhibit, Hook said, includes work of designer craftsmen from 38 states. The show is "to encourage craftsmen artists in the creation of unique and esthetically gratifying objects that show fine workmanship, and thus to advance the standards of all design." The exhibit will run through May 19 at the Wichita Art Assn. Galleries. Mrs. Turk, who holds a master of fine arts degree in painting from Indiana University, taught an MSU extension course in weaving last quarter.

THE POSTMAN COMETH

I have recently received several letters from readers which have been so interesting, so piquant, so je ne sais quoi, that I feel I must share them with all of you. The letters and my replies follow:

SIR:

Maybe you can help me. I came up to college eight years ago. On my very first day I got into a bridge game in the student union. I am still in the same bridge game. I have never gone to class, cracked a book, or paid any tuition. All I do is play bridge.

To explain my long absence and keep the money coming from home, I told a harmless little lie. I said I was in medical school. This made Dad (my father) terribly proud. It also enabled me to keep playing bridge. We were both very happy.

But all good things must come to an end. Mine ended when I came home for Christmas vacation. I arrived to find that Sister (my sister) was in the hospital with an ingrown spleen. Dr. Norbert Sigafos, the eminent ingrown spleen surgeon, was scheduled to operate, but unfortunately he was run over by a hot-food cart on the way to the scrubbing room.

"Oh, never mind," chuckled Dad (my father). "Harlow (me) will fix Sister (my sister)."

Well sir, what could I do? If I told the truth I would make a laughingstock out of Dad (my father) who had been bragging about me all over town. Also I would get yanked out of school which would be a dirty shame just when I am beginning to understand the weak club bid.

There was nothing for it but to brazen it out. I got Sister (my sister) apart all right, but I must confess myself completely at a loss as to how to put her back together again. Can you suggest anything? They're getting pretty surly around here.

Sincerely,

Harlow Protein

Dear Harlow:

Indeed I do have the solution for you—the solution that has never failed me when things close in: Light up a Marlboro! Knots untie as you puff that fine rich tobacco. Shade becomes light as that grand flavor comes freely and friendly through that splendid filter. Who can stay glum when Marlboro gives you such a lot to like? Not I. Not you. Not nobody.

SIR:

Just off the campus where I go to school there is a lake called Lake Widgigan. Thirty years ago when my father was an undergraduate here he went fishing one day in Lake Widgigan and dropped his Deke pin in the water. He dived for days but never found it.

Just yesterday—thirty years later, mark you!—I went fishing in Widgigan. I caught a four-pound bass. I took the fish home, cut it open, and what do you think I found inside?

You guessed it! Two tickets to the Dempsey-Firpo fight.

Sincerely,

Willis Wayde
